SC HEBRON, John L., 1862
3323 1842-1914

Letter, 20 February 1862, from John L. Hebron to his mother in Steubenville, Ohio. He reports his regiment's arrival on the outskirts of Bowling Green, Kentucky, taken from Confederate forces "without firing a gun," and describes attempting to cross a ruined bridge, his living quarters in a deserted house, and available food supplies. In a 25 February postscript from Nashville, Tennessee, he writes of the troops' continued lack of success in crossing the river into Bowling Green, and mentions reports that the Confederates plan to "make a stand" south of Nashville. The letterhead bears an engraving of General Nathaniel Lyon on horseback.
